

Understanding Truck Drivers

WHO WE ARE

We work on the road, transporting most things that people and companies need each day.

Truck drivers

We are professionals

We ask that you respect our work because we are working on the road and pursuing our career.

We are experts on the road

We have thousands of hours and kilometers of experience that have taught us to be better drivers and road users.

We are responsible

When we drive a truck, not only are our lives and those of other drivers at stake, but so is our work and our professional competence.

We are your friends

Even though we are almost always portrayed as bad guys in the movies, a truck driver will always show up ready to help anyone who needs it on the road in real life.

We are drivers

We drive a vehicle that is larger, heavier, less responsive and has far more momentum than a car. We ask for you to keep this in mind; and also for your understanding, patience, and prudence.
